
About the Artist

Luigi Gobbo is a master tile craftsman and mosaic artist who grew up in a small town near Venice, Italy and studied mosaic tile arts at the Scuola Artigiana in Motta Di Livenza, province of Treviso. Seeking new opportunities, he immigrated to the United States in 1965 and began working as a tile apprentice in upstate New York.

Luigi married Valerie Bernardini in 1973 and had two children Carmela and Antonio. In 1978, he became a United States citizen and through his ambition and talent, started his own tile contracting company in 1987. Luigi's mosaics have been purchased by commercial clients and private collectors across the country. A classic immigrant success story, Luigi continues the craft he learned in Italy and is proud to share his love of mosaic artwork.
